FARMYARD PETS

Don Spencer/Terry Murray

Published by Mushroom

I've got a problem with my farmyard pets,
Let me tell you how hard it gets.
I love them all and I wish they were friends
But when they get together, well the trouble never ends.

I've got a pet bull. I've got a pet horse.
I've got a dog, and a cat of course.
I've got a pet hen, and a little white mouse.
And a blue tongued lizard, living underneath my house.
I've got a problem with my farmyard pets!

I've got a problem with my farmyard pets,
Let me tell you how hard it gets.
I love them all and I wish they were friends
But when they get together, well the trouble never ends.

Chorus

Well, the bull gets mad, and charges at the horse.
The horse starts to gallop - got to get away of course.
The horse jumps a fence - nearly lands upon the dog.
The dog gives a yelp, and tumbles off the log.
It lands upon the cat, who jumps into the pen.
It tears round and round, scares an egg out of my hen.
The hen starts to squawk, and runs under the house.
Where it terrifies the lizard and my little pet mouse.
I've got a problem with my farmyard pets!

I've got a problem with my farmyard pets
Let me tell you how hard it gets
I love them all and wish they were friends
But when they get together, well the trouble never ends.

Chorus
