FLOWERS

Don Spencer

Published by MCA-Gilbey

In the gardens and the fields, there are flowers growing free.
And oh, what a beautiful sight to see!
So let's name a few that just might be in your vicinity.

Chorus

Daisies, daphne, roses, sweet pea, frangipani, lupins, lilies,
violets, poppies and magnolia,
lavender and forget-me-nots.
Foxgloves, freesias and carnations,
columbine and chrysanthemums,
hollyhock and honeysuckle,
daffodils and delphiniums.

In the gardens and the fields, there are flowers you can see,
And they've all been given names like you and me.
So get to know their names like you know your friends,
So that you can say hello when you meet again.

Chorus
